A fun little timewaster from Yahtzee, set in the Chzo Mythos he established in his older adventure titles, none of which you need to have played to enjoy this. An eldritch deity is attempting entry to our dimension, and must be stopped at all costs. You, our hero, must attempt to research and close the interdimensional rift by investigating areas infested by its minions, killing them, and picking up clues as to the being's identity. Each game takes about an hour to complete, and there's a lot of replay value, with additional perks, characters, and game modes opening up each time you die. and you will die a lot, to begin with. All part of the fun. The author generates a creepy atmosphere that belies the (fairly) primitive graphics, and there's some nice sound work too.
